The enthusiasm in the Democratic party in Wisconsin can't even be called "sporadic."

The Madison Democrat is trying to become the Okolona States of Wisconsin. It is making out pretty well.

A recipe for a political sticking plaster will be gladly accepted by the Democrats of Wisconsin. They want some adhesive power to keep the party together.

Ben Butler will not make the politics of Massachusetts as lively as he did last year. He has lost his grip of the people of that State, and can never recover it. He is a dead duck in the politics of the country.

The debt statement for the month of July shows the public debt to have increased a little over six millions of dollars for that month. The case of the increase is the payment of the arrears of pensions.

The hero of Cypher Alley smiles at the perplexity of General Ewing. When Tilden nails in the head of his barrel and turns his back on Ewing, saying not a word, that means a good deal, and Ewing sees the point.

When the Democratic Investigating Committee went to work in Cincinnati it looked for some Republican crookedness, but it has got nothing for its labor but a lot of bogus Democratic affidavits with which the Democrats expected to break down the election laws.

Can anybody give one sensible reason why Wm. E. Smith should be re-elected Governor of Wisconsin?—Oshkosh Times.

Will the Times give one sensible reason why William E. Smith should not be re-elected Governor of Wisconsin? Come, will the Oshkosh Times be the first Democratic paper in the State to answer that question?

The largest sale of Government bonds ever made to one person and at one time was recently made to William B. Astor, of New York. The amount was four millions of dollars of the 4 per cent. bonds, and each bond was of the denomination of $50,000. He bought them simply as an investment for the family.

Charley Foster, who will be the next Governor of Ohio, don't propose to shirk a single responsibility this campaign. The Greenback State Committee gave him a challenge, and he promptly agreed to meet any or all their leaders in joint discussion. Foster is in earnest in this matter, and will prove that he is capable of demolishing all the speakers the Demo-Greenback party can put against him.

When a Republican in Mississippi comes up for office he is politely notified by the Democrats to leave the country or die. Should he insist that he has a good right to run for office, and will not withdraw from the canvass, his property is burned and his life placed in danger. This is the "Mississippi plan." It is the way the South solidifies itself, and this is the way the Democrats expect to carry all the Southern States.

The last number of Harper's Weekly contains a portrait of John King, the Cincinnati "Newsboy," and also a sketch of his life. It would do the boys of Janesville and other places some good to read how and under what circumstances this strange newsboy, now thirty-nine years old, became famous. His lot has been a hard one and his triumph a grand one. Those who are discouraged can hardly fail to get a little ease of mind from this sketch of John King.

"Uncle" Daniel Wells, whose name is being mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for Governor, is an ancient citizen of Milwaukee, and a man of large property. The latter qualification makes him very dear to the Democratic managers. He was in the Territorial Council in 1838, 1839, and 1840, and was a member of Congress from the First District—which then included Milwaukee—in 1855-7. "Uncle" Daniel Wells knows enough not to allow himself to be bled and defeated in one campaign.

A Committee of Congressmen has been in session in Chicago for several days investigating the cause of business depression. The Committee closed its labors on Friday, and Mr. Wright, of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the Committee, is astonished at the result. The investigation has satisfied every member of the Committee that there has been a great increase of general prosperity, not only in Chicago but throughout the country. The Committee heard the statement of men engaged in nearly all classes of business, and in almost every instance the report were that trade and business generally was rapidly increasing, that working men and mechanics were earning fair wages and had constant employment. The report of the Committee will be published in book form in a short time.

There died at Waukesha on Thursday one of the most distinguished divines in the West—Rev. Robert Boyd, D. D. In 1856 he settled in Chicago, and became pastor of the Edina Place Baptist Church, but several years ago he removed to Waukesha, and was pastor of the Baptist church in that place. While engaged in his ministerial duties, he was taken down by a disease of the spine, and for some time he preached from the pulpit while sitting in a chair, and finally he was compelled to take to his bed, and for more than ten years he never left it. This bodily suffering did not prevent him from working. While bolstered up in bed by his pillows he would continue to write, and in this manner wrote several important and ably written religious works. During his years of suffering he seemed to work with the same noble spirit, hope and patience which characterized him while he was most vigorous in body. He was about 65 years old.

CHEAP VACATIONS.

We now live in an age of "magnificent vacations"—vacations at the sea shore, vacations at the great springs, and vacation in Europe. During the summer these places are the scenes of brilliant festivities. The rich go there by the thousands—to escape the heat, the dust, and the noise of the city. They move in grand style at these fashionable places of resort. Their rooms are covered with velvet carpets and adorned with costly mirrors, while dazzling diamonds and the richest dresses make the ladies central figures of attraction; and when they ride out they go in all the splendor that a full purse can command. But there are thousands of people—those "in a small way" who need comfort and health, recreation and sport, as much as the guilds of the great cities, and how to secure these at a cost within their reach, is a question of no little importance. The great mass of the people—the hard-working mechanic, the clerk confined to the counter or the desk for ten or twelve hours each day, the business man of moderate means, the careworn and industrious mother, and the little children need the fresh air, the rest of mind and the repose of body as much as the rich, and they seldom get them for the reason that their means are too limited. Their time and purse will not permit them to join the throngs that dazzle the popular summer resorts, and where can they go to get away from the cares of business and from the drudgery of kitchen life for a few days? This question is not difficult to answer so far as the people in this part of the West are concerned. In the East it is a graver question than in the West, and an attempt is being made to set on foot a movement which will furnish "people in a small way" with vacations and health and comfort at low rates. While it will cost a family of three or four from $150 to $400 a week to rest for the season at Long Branch, Cape May, or Saratoga, a family of the same size can find fresh air, free baths, beautiful scenery, pleasant sports, and "good living" at from $5 to $10 a week in the country. This is being tried, and is proving successful. Rest is no sweeter, sleep no more refreshing, food no more palatable at Long Branch than on the beautiful banks of Rock river or among the tents at Geneva Lake.

The benefit to be derived from "vacations" is rest to the body and peace to the mind—or in other words a building up of the physical system which has been pulled down by hard work and close confinement indoors. These can be realized in thousands of places other than at the fashionable hotels at popular watering places. In New York, families of very moderate means are going in large numbers to the banks of attractive lakes and rivers, carrying their tents with them, and living in a style which bids defiance to the rich and the proud at Saratoga or Coney Island, and all this costs them not to exceed a dollar a week for each person. They don't live either on the order of "dried apple pie and stewed dried peaches." They provide good bread, healthy cold meats, and ripe fruits, and have more solid comfort, more ease of mind, more rest to the body, and a more stalwart conscience, than those at Long Branch, who are distinguished only for the money they can command.

When people in the towns and cities of the West think of the subject of vacation, in a common sense manner, they will not envy those who flirt at the grand hotels at the fashionable summer resorts. There is no finer scenery, no purer water East of the Rocky Mountains than can be found in Wisconsin, and Rock river affords an abundance of these. But people, or at least more than half of them, spend their money at the popular resorts for the empty honor of mingling with the fashionable, and not for any good they derive from these places. It has been demonstrated that sensible people, and those who need rest and fresh air, can make a country vacation quite enjoyable with the expenditure of but little money, and "with complete independence."

FINANCIAL TROUBLES.

LA CROSSE, Aug. 1—D. J. Spaulding, a leading lumberman and merchant of Black River Falls, has made an assignment to his brother-in-law, the Hon. W. T. Price. Liabilities from $300,000 to $400,000. The assets are difficult to estimate, and are anywhere from $500,000 to $1,500,000. Spaulding has always had the reputation of being willing to buy anything under heaven that the seller would take his note for.

EATING PICKLES.

NEW YORK, August 1—Katie Moore, of Newark, died this morning from eating pickles. The family of James Darke, of this city, where the young woman was visiting, are seriously sick from the same cause.

A BIG BLAZE.

The City of Hamilton, Ontario, Visited with a Destructive Conflagration —The Loss Estimated at $1,000,000.

HAMILTON, Ont., August 1.—A large fire is now in progress here. McInnes' Block is totally destroyed. The Bank of Hamilton, Turner, Livingston & Co., McInnes & Co., and the Hamilton Provident Loan Association are burned out. The Merchants' Bank is also in flames. It is feared that the whole block east will go.

HAMILTON, August 1.—The fire originated in Turner, Livingstone & Co.'s, in the rear of the Bank of Hamilton. The cashier gave the alarm, and all hands speedily proceeded to secure the funds and books. The flames darted upwards through an opening in the building. The Turners, McInnes, and Provident Loan Office speedily took fire, and so intense was the heat that the stone facings flew off and the firemen were scorched.

The fire extended to the Merchant's Bank, across John street, and to the Safford warehouse above, and also spread up John street and King street. McInnis' building was completely gutted.

The fire was controlled about 8 o'clock. Cinders ignited Gurney's roof, two blocks north, and also the colored Methodist church near Gurney's foundry.

The fire brigade saved the foundry, but the church was totally destroyed.

Cinders also ignited roofs six or seven blocks away, but were extinguished.

A boy named Littlehale, while assisting at the Bank of Hamilton, was fatally injured by falling stone. Another boy is reported badly injured from the same cause.

The extent of the damage cannot be estimated to-night.

The McInnis building was valued at $150,000, and the stock at $300,000. Both are insured for $230,000.

The value of other buildings destroyed is fully $500,000, and the stock $100,000 or $200,000.

PUBLIC DEBT.

Which Shows an Increase of Six Million Dollars.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—The public debt statement to-day, shows an increase in the debt of over $6,000,000, the largest increase of any month for many years. This extraordinarily large excess of expenditures is mainly attributable to the fact that, in accordance with the act passed at the last session of Congress, the Secretary of the Treasury was directed to pay out for pension arrears the fund held for the redemption of fractional currency, which amounted to nearly $7,500,000. In addition, several deficiencies of the fiscal year ending June 30 last were paid during the month just closed, and large disbursements were also made on account of the appropriations for the new fiscal year, which became available on July 1. The fractional currency reserve fund having been exhausted in paying the arrears of pensions, and no other funds having been specifically appropriated for that purpose by Congress for the future, payments on account of arrears of pensions will depend on whether there will be "any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated" when the claims for arrears of pensions are presented for payment.

HEROISM.

An Extraordinary Instance of It at Cape May.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1—The Rev. John R. Graham, D. D., a distinguished clergyman from Brighton, England, was drowned to-day at Cape May, and the rare heroism of his niece, Miss Gussie Graham, of this city, who, with the assistance of Mr. C. H. Ames, of Boston, recovered his body, is the theme of general praise at the Cape to-night.

Dr. Graham came to this country a few weeks ago on a visit, traveling through Canada, and finally reaching the house of his brother, James Graham, of this city. For the last three days he has been at Cape May. This morning he went in bathing with his nephew, Archibald Graham, and his two nieces, Bessie and Gussie. The bathers soon became separated, Miss Bessie found herself beyond her depth, and her brother went to her assistance. With great difficulty he brought her to where she could touch bottom. Just at this moment the Rev. Dr. Graham, who was perfectly at home in the water, came swimming up. In the excitement he had been lost sight of momentarily, and it is supposed he started to the rescue. He swam in from the seaside, and on reaching the couple grasped the young lady with an iron grip. Before going into the water he complained of a severe headache, and it is supposed that just about as he reached the pair he was stricken by apoplexy. Young Mr. Graham lost his hold upon his sister Completely exhausted, he saw her floating out to sea again with his uncle. To see his sister drowning before his eyes while he could do nothing was agony. He shouted for her, and his other sister besought those upon the beach to go to their rescue. No one started. Either they could not swim, or they were afraid to risk their lives. But help was at hand. Away out on the pier was Mr. C. H. Ames, of Boston, who came to this city to attend the sessions of the National Educational Association. He was watching the bathers, and his attention was attracted by an unusual stir on the shore. Then he heard the cry of help, help, and a moment later he saw a man in the water throwing his hands up and shouting. Farther out to sea he saw two heads in the water; one was that of a lady, the other that of a man. They were floating toward the pier. He took in the situation at a glance. On the pier was a long rope. He whipped out his knife, cut the rope free, and, rushing to the railing, pulled off his coat, vest, and shoes, he gave one end of the rope to men on the pier and lowered himself into the water. The young lady was then only a few away. She was struggling to keep her uncle above water, but do all she could, only the top of his head could be kept above the waves.

Mr. Ames speaks of the bravery of Miss Gussie as something that cannot be described. Her sole thought seemed to be to keep her uncle from drowning. When the strong current had borne the pair nearly to the pier, Mr. Ames caught a turn around his own body with the rope and sprang out. The young girl's head seemed to be drooping, as if the struggle for life was about ended. Some one on the pier meanwhile had thrown a plank overboard. Mr. Ames succeeded in reaching Miss Gussie, and told her to hold on to the board. She grasped it, and, as it floated against a pile of the pier, held on for dear life.

"Where is the man?" asked Mr. Ames.

"He is under the water, can you save him?" was the response.

Mr. Ames at that moment felt the body with his feet. He caught it between his legs and drew it up till he could clasp it with his hand. He was cling with one hand to the rope which had got twisted about his own body, so that he walked with great difficulty. Do all he could Dr. Graham's face would fall over into the water.

Another rope was lowered and placed under the Doctor's chin, which partially lifted it from the waves. Then one pulled in with a boat, and Miss Gussie, Dr. Graham and Mr Ames were taken on board. As soon as the beach was reached the usual methods for restoring life in case of drowning were resorted to, but all to no avail, Dr. Graham was dead.

WAS IT AN ACCIDENT?

Two Men Engaged in a Drunken Scuffle Fall Into the River and Are Drowned.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2—About 11 o'clock last night a noise and commotion in the vicinity of Clark street bridge attracted considerable attention. On the balcony that runs along the river side of O'Brien's saloon Billy Fitzpatrick and Dick McCauley were engaged in a drunken quarrel. They fell to the floor and began to roll about, and were spurred on by the crowd. They arose and grappled, and began to go very near the low railing that protects the outer edge of the porch. At this juncture some persons went to search for a policeman who, by the way, could not have been at his post at the bridge. A stout, red-faced individual would not allow the men to be separated, and after a few minutes of this standing fight the men reeled near the rail, clinched as they were, struck the rail, and over they went together. With a dull thud the lower of the pair struck the projecting pier beneath, and then bounded into the dark and muddy waters of the river. A man standing on the pier jumped in and endeavored to save them; one of them came to the surface, but stifled with the vile water, could make no motion. Presently a policeman, attracted by curiosity, sauntered down to the saloon, and modestly closed its doors, and things became hushed and stilled. A curious crowd began to swarm about the railings and tried to pierce the shadows on the dock throwing out the grappling-hooks, and speaking in low voices. Some thirty minutes passed before, by the aid of grappling hooks, the bodies were recovered. The bodies were carried to the sidewalk. Here they were laid and eagerly inspected by a large crowd of people, and thence they were conveyed to the Morgue.

Those who witnessed this occurrence say that the death of these men was not the result of the accident. A man stated to the police that he desired to prefer a charge of murder against the man who pushed the unfortunates over the railing. He did not give any names. The police did not listen to him, however. A number of others who witnessed the fight claim that some one kicked the man over the rail, but all those who encouraged the fight seem to have disappeared. Both men were unmarried, and were about 35 years of age. Both had been drinking considerably lately, and thus in a drunken row passed into a quick eternity.

GENERAL GRANT.

The Ex-President Denounces the Proposed California Excursion.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—A gentleman in this city has received a letter from one of the party accompanying General Grant, in which he writes that General Grant expresses great gratification at the kindly feelings manifested toward him by the people of the whole country, and that he regards this universal demonstration as anything but the expression of political sentiments. Nothing is said as to the Presidency. The news of a proposed reception at San Francisco under the auspices of the McMillin Brothers, had reached the General, and the project was denounced as a money making scheme, disgusting beyond expression, and one which the General will not countenance in anyway. The tenor of that portion of the letter relating to this reception shows that the General is very indignant at the audacity of two or three men undertaking to make his return a source of profit to themselves, without regard to the feelings of the General, or to the honor and dignity of his position as a private citizen. No date is given in the letter for the return of the party. When it does come the writer says no circus show will be permitted.

MEMPHIS.

Quiet and Dull—Seventeen New Cases —Four Deaths.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 1—The day has been remarkably quiet and dull. To-night the streets are completely deserted, and the moon, which illuminates the city, has no lover of nature to go into ecstacies over the grand spectacle of this beautiful summer evening.

There were seventeen new cases and four deaths to-day. The Rev. Fathers Doyle and Fazey, who were stricken to-day, were the priests in charge of St. Patrick's Church, at the corner of DeSoto and Linden streets. They are attended by Dr. F. L. Sims.

The Howard Association reports as having assigned fourteen additional nurses to duty. They are at an expense of $250 per day, and have $20 000 on hand.

AN ASTONISHED INTERPRETER.

Herrman, the Wizard, Plays a Practical Joke in Court.

New York Times.

Just as Justice Flammer was about to leave the Tombs of the police court, yesterday, a ricely-attired gentleman of tall, slim build, bearing a striking resemblance to the popular ideal of Mephistopheles, walked hurriedly to the bench. He wore a scarf-pin representing a coiling serpent with glittering eyes, diamonds sparkled on his finger, and he looked quizzically out of a pair of large eye-glasses, while he blew clouds of smoke from a fragrant cigarette he was smoking. He spoke to Justice Flammer in German, and the magistrate, motioning to "Napoleon," the court interpreter, said; "This gentleman has got some complaint to make. I wish you'd find out what the trouble is." "Nap," who is a fat, jolly, easy-going German, asked the stranger what he wanted, and the latter replied, in a low tone, that he had been robbed of a considerable sum of money, and wished to have a warrant for the thief's arrest. "What's that you say sir?" inquired "Nap," as he leaned forward, the better to catch the words of the gentleman 'I say that I have been robbed," roared the gentleman, and, suddenly plunging his hand into the inner pocket of the interpreter's waistcoat, he drew forth a large roll of bills, and displayed them to the magistrate,

"I say, sir" he repeated to the dumbfounded German, "that I have been robbed and you must be the thief, for this is my money. "Nap" began to examine his clothing with nervous haste, and explained, in a frightened way that he knew nothing of the money. "What," exclaimed the stranger, "why you have my ring in your waistcoat pocket now." Still more amazed "Nap" drew the jewel from the pocket indicated. Every one roared with laughter, and the magistrate said with a smile, "Well, Mr. Herrman, I think you had better make a complaint of larceny against our interpreter." The visitor was Herrman, the wizard, who had accepted Mr. Justice Flammer's invitation to visit the city prison court, and had been induced by the justice to play a practical joke upon the court interpreter. "Ah, gentlemen," said Herrman, as the laughter subsided, "may I have the pleasure of offering you some cigarettes?" He opened a silver cigar case and drew forth a single cigarette. "They are of a peculiar brand, as you see, explained the magician. He held the cigarette in the air, and a shower of cigarettes fell from it. He politely distributed a number of the cigarettes to the court officials and spectators, and walked away with the magistrate.

Strange Dreams.

New York Dispatch.

Gustave Brooke, the day before he left London to embark in the ill-fated steamer upon which he was to have sailed to Australia, met his friend Greeves at a favorite resort in the Strand.

"So you are really off to-morrow?—but not for long, I imagine?"

"Yes," said the tragedian, in an unusually grave tone: "yes, I am afraid I may never return."

"Nonesense. What makes you have such a gloomy idea as that?"

"I'll tell you, Greeves, I had a strange dream last night. It was this. I dreamed that some fellow—an author—came to me with the manuscript of a play, and wanted to sell it to me. I saw in great letters upon the cover of the first act the title was 'The Wreck.' I turned over a few pages and came to a sketch in ink of the closing tableaux, intended to illustrate the way in which the stage should be set. Standing upon the deck of a sinking vessel was a man clinging to the rigging. The despairing face of that man was a perfect reproduction of my own features. The sight of that agonized face, so perfect a picture of myself, frightened me out of my sleep. Greeves, I tell you that dream means something serious"

"Pshaw!" said Greeves. "It means too late hours and too late dinners."

Brooks went his way, and met the verification of the vision of his slumber.

"I am going, my boy," said N. B. Clark to a brother-professional who entered the dying man's apartment just as the physician departed; "I am going."

"Nonsense!" was the reply. "You're good for many years yet."

"Am I? You think so, do you? Last night my wife had three lights burning in this room,—three lights," he repeated faintly, "and that means—death."

A few hours after that, surely enough Death rang down his life-curtain upon the last scene of all.

Edmund Kean once wrote from London to a friend in Dublin: "I am glad you do not believe in such omens. For my part, I scarcely know whether I should or not, were I the victim of such nightmares. I never had but one such dream, and that was on the night poor B. died. It seemed not unnatural that he should come to me in my sleep attired in his grave clothes, the more readily when you know that I had been thinking of his deplorable condition an hour before I slept. I had fallen asleep at 11 of the clock on my mantel shelf—and I awoke half an hour after. In that brief space I had the dream; and in that hour almost to the moment B, as I next day learned, died. Was that his spirit—this shrouded form—or my imagination? I leave you to solve the question."

To Macready the sight of a toad in his dreams gave him more nervous anxiety for hours after than could "the substance of ten thousand men armed in proof and led by shallow Richmond." One day, at a Drury Lane rehearsal, Mr. Ryder said to the great tragedian:

"Mr. Macready, I had a queer dream last night—very queer—I saw sitting on a huge rock a——"

"Great God?"—ah—a—toad!" exclaimed Macready, paling at the very thought of it.

"Toad—no, a pair of gigantic bullfrogs doing the fencing scene in Hamlet."

The great interpreter of Lear turned away in disgust at this overtopping of his toad omen. David Garrick regarded the appearance of a sword or knives in a dream as an omen of impending danger.

A week or two before his death, George Frederick Cooke had a "distempered vision" of a scene in "Richard III.,"—the scene in which the coffin of the dead King is brought on. He thought, as he in the dream uttered the lines, "Stay you that bear the corpse," etc., that there suddenly appeared upon the black velvet pall, in white letters, his own name. It is possible, however, that Cooke's vision may have been the result of an over feasting and a superfluity of "great draughts of Rhenish" or other equally potent spirit at the old Shades, in Thames street, which, in his time, was the resort of all "good fellows and true" of the town. Poor Cooke. He lies quiet enough now in the old church yard on Vesey street and Broadway.

Lucille Western had something of faith in the weird signs and forerunners that come when least expected "from out the vague and boundless Dreamland." She once informed an intimate friend that she knew a month before the sad event occurred that her sister Helen, when playing in Philadelphia, was soon to die, or meet with some fearful accident.

"I saw the whole scene of her death—the room, the persons at the bedside, the very color of the walls, the position of the windows, and her face as she lifted up her head for the last time—I saw it all, and I shall never forget that dream and its fearful realization as long as I live."

"If you ever stumble the first time you enter the theatre in which you are engaged, you can make up your mind either that stay will be short or you'll have trouble," said a veteran comedian, the other evening. "You may laugh as much as you like at it, but it's so; and a trip on the carpet while you're on the stage means—well, it means more than a fall or a bruised knee in trying to save yourself. You remember Amy Fawcett? She stumbled on her first entrance the first night she played at the Fifth avenue, and in three months she died almost friendless and forsaken. Call these things—these trivial happenings—accident, or what you may like, they have a meaning to those who have the gift of reading the language of omens and forerunners?"

Perhaps the old comedian is half right after all. Who can tell?

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

Sunrise and Sunset.

The following gorgeous description of a sunrise is from an oration by Edward Everett, at the inauguration of the Cambridge Observatory:

"Much, however, as we are indebted to our observatories for elevating our conceptions of the heavenly bodies, they present even to the unaided sight scenes of glory which words are too feeble to describe. I had occasion, a few weeks since, to take the early train from Providence to Boston, and for this purpose rose at two o'clock in the morning. Everything around was wrapt in darkness and hushed in silence, broken only by what seemed at that hour, the unearthly clank and rush of the train. It was a mild, serene, mid-summer night—the sky was without a cloud—the winds were whist. The moon, then in the last quarter, had just risen, and the stars shone with a spectral lustre, but little affected by her presence. Jupiter, two hours high, was the herald of the day—the Pleiades just above the horizon shed their sweet influence in the East; Lyra sparkled near the zenith; Andromeda vailed her newly discovered glories from the naked eye South; the steady pointers far beneath the Pole, looked meekly up from the depths of the North to their Sovereign.

Such was the glorious spectacle as I entered the train. As we proceeded, the timid approach of twilight became more perceptible; the intense blue of the sky began to soften; the smaller stars, like little children, went first to rest; the sister beams of the Pleiades soon melted together; but bright constellations of the West and East remained unchanged. Steadily the wonderous transfiguration went on. Hands of angels hidden from mortal eyes shifted the scenery of the heavens; the glories of night dissolved into the glories of dawn. The blue sky now turned more softly gray; the great watch stars shut up their holy eyes; the east began to kindle. Faint streaks of purple soon blushed along the sky; the whole celestial concave was filled with the inflowing tides of the morning light, which came pouring down from above in one great ocean of radiance, till at length, as we reached the Blue Hills, a flash of purple fire blazed out from above the horizon, and turned the dewey tear-drops of flower and leaf into rubies and diamonds. In a few seconds the everlasting gates of the morning were thrown wide open, and the lord of day, arrayed in glories too severe for gaze of man, began his course.

I do not wonder at the superstition of the ancient Magians, who in the morning of the world went up to the hill tops of Central Asia, and ignorant of the true God, adored the most glorious work of his hand. But I am filled with amazement when I am told that in this enlightened age, and in the heart of the Christian world, there are persons who can witness this daily manifestation of the power and wisdom of the Creator, and yet say in their hearts, "Their is no God."

As a companion piece to the above, we reproduce a description of sunset, written for an Ohio paper by Hon. S. S. Cox, which won for him the name of Sunset Cox:

"What a stormful sunset was that of last night! How glorious the storm and how splendid the setting of the sun. We do not remember ever to have seen the like on our round globe. The scene opened in the west, with a whole horizon full of a golden inter-penetrating lustre which colored the foliage and brightened every object into its own rich dyes. The colors grew deeper and richer until the golden lustre was transformed into a storm cloud, full of finest lightning, which leaped in dazzling zigzags all round and over the city. The wind arose with fury, the slender shrubs and the giant trees made obeisance to his majesty. Some even snapped before its force. The strawberry beds and grass plats "turned up their whites" to see Zephrus march by. As the rain came, and the pools formed, and the gutters hurried away, thunder roared grandly, and the fire bells caught the excitement and rung with hearty chorus. The south and east received the copious showers, and the west at once brightened up in a long polished belt of azure, worthy of a Sicilian sky.

Presently a cloud appeared in the azure belt, in the form of a castelled city. It became more vivid, revealing strange forms of peerless fanes and alabaster temples, and glories rare and grand in this mundane sphere. It reminds us of Wadsworth's splendid verse in his "Excursion:"

"The appearance instantaneously disclosed,
Was of a mighty city, boldly say
A wilderness of buildings, sinking far
And self withdrawn into a wonderous depth,
Far sinking into splendor without end!"

But the city vanished only to give place to another isle, where the most beautiful forms of foliage appeared, imaging a Paradise in the distant and purified air.

The sun, wearied with the elemental commotion, sank behind the green plains of the West. The "great eye in heaven," however, went not down without a dark brow hanging over its departing light.

The rich flush of the unearthly light had passed and the rain had ceased; when the solemn church bells pealed, the laughter of children, bright and joyous after the storm, is heard with the carol of the birds; while the forked and purple weapon of the skies still darted illumination around the Starling College, trying to rival its angles and leap into its dark windows.

Candles are lighted. The piano strikes up. We feel it good to have a home; good to be on earth where such revelations of Beauty and Power may be made. And as we cannot refrain from reminding our readers of everything wonderful in our city, we have begun and ended our feeble etching of a sunset which comes so rarely, that its glory should be committed to immortal type."

The Journey of a San Francisco Man's Heart—A Case which Puzzles the Doctors.

From the San Francisco Bulletin.

There resides at No. 467 Jessie street, in this city, a man who has been unable to attend to his business for the past two years on account of the displacement of his heart. The patient is Kenneth F McLean, a carpenter by trade. He contracted a severe cold about the 12th of June, 1877. A physician was then called, and pronounced it a bad case of pneumonia. After a month's treatment, he felt a little better, when the nurse discovered a lump or swelling on his left side. The next time the physician called he attracted his attention to it. The physician made an examination and pronounced it a collection of water, and he must have a slight touch of pleurisy. A few mornings after, McLean discovered that his heart was beating on his right side, and it has remained there ever since. The patient, who was naturally of a very robust constitution rallied after the first attact, and was soon able to be about. He called upon his physician and told him that his heart had moved to his right side. The physician would not believe it, but on examination found it to be the case. This was about the last of July. His physician measured him about every third day with a tape, and found that the water was increasing, about the 18th of August he applied blisters but they gave no relief. In the mean time he called to see another physician who urged no delay in getting McLean tapped, stating that his left lung was useless, and that his heart was likely to remain in its present position unless the water was removed immediately. McLean called on his physician and requested to be tapped, but he told him there was danger in being tapped too soon, but if he insisted he would accommodate him, and appointed Saturday, Sept. 15. He came that day and brought three physicians with him. They made an incision between the ribs and took seven pints of water from him; after which he obtained immediate relief. But he soon began to fill up again, and he was tapped a second time on the 6th of October, and six pints of water drawn off. He was then tapped the third and last time on Nov. 8, and four and a half pints drawn off. The last time they analyzed the liquid, and pronounced it 75 per cent albumen; after each operation he grew weaker, and concluded that it was time to have a change of some kind. His physician advised him to go to the country, but, as the rain was approaching, he concluded not to go, but called in another physician, and in five days he measured 1¾ inches less where the water had been accumulating. Under the last treatment he improved very fast and never had occasion for an operation since. One of the results of his sickness is that his left lung is in a dormant state, and his heart remains on his right side. He feels confident, however, that had he been tapped earlier or treated as his last physician treated him, he would have been a well man to-day. He has been before three different medical societies, and found a great difference of opinion regarding his sickness existing among the members. A great many of them are deeply interested in his case.

PROF. HARRIS' RADICAL CURE FOR SPERMATTORHŒA.
—THE—
"SEMINAL PASTILLE"

SHAPE & SIZE OF A SEMINAL PASTILLE

A Valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions & Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostrate Gland and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, Etc. Etc. and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation, Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction.——During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in a neat box, enough to last a month, and sent in a plain wrapper by mail sealed for $3.——Two boxes, (sufficient to effects a permanent cure unless in severe cases) $5.——Three boxes lasting three full months, will stop emissions, and restore vigor, in the worst cases, $7.—Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for a Descriptive Pamphlet giving Anatomical Illustrations, which will convince the most sceptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sent Sealed for stamp to any one. Sold ONLY by the

THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1879.

What Iowa Girls Are Taught.

At the Iowa Agricultural College every girl in the Junior class has learned how to make good bread, weighing and measuring her ingredients, mixing, kneading and baking, and regulating her fires. Each has also been taught to make yeast and bake biscuit, puddings,—pies, and cake of various kinds; how to cook a roast, broil a steak, and make a fragrant cup of coffee; how to stuff and roast a turkey, make oyster soup, prepare stocks for other soups, steam and mash potatoes so that they will melt in the mouth, and, in short, to get up a first class meal, combining both substantial and fancy dishes, in good style. Theory and manual skill have gone hand in hand. Vast stores of learning have been accumulated in the arts of canning, preserving and pickling fruits, and they have taken practical lessons in all the details of household management, such as house furnishing, care of beds and bedding, washing and ironing, care of sick, care of children, etc. The girls, we are informed, are also thoroughly grounded in science, mathematics and English literature; but this is of slight moment compared with the foregoing catalogue of virtues. If there is anything that challenges the unlimited respect and devotion of the masculine mind, it is the ability in woman to order well her household—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Oats as Farm Stock.

"The harmless necessary cat" is not so well treated as it deserves. One rarely considers that a well kept cat may be more profitable than a cow. If one rat per day is destroyed, the services of a cat may be estimated as at least equal to $100 per year. Let us try to calculate the enormous damage done by 395 rats in one year, to say nothing of the ravages of the numerous progeny of so many vermin. One rat per day is a moderate amount of business for an active cat. Recently the writer counted five rats captured in a stable by one cat in one day, and possibly others were not seen. The cat being well fed, hunted for amusement, and did not eat the prey. This is the principal point in the management of a cat. It should be well and regularly fed, for rats are unwholesome food. They are infested with larvæ of tape worms, and cats are frequently tormented with the mature parasites in consequence of devouring deceased rats. When kept free from hunger a cat will watch more patiently, and will only occasionally devour a rat or a mouse. The most healthful food for a cat is a mixed animal and vegetable diet. Milk and bread; a few potatoes with meat gravy, or a little fat, and a sprinkling of salt, with an occasional scrap of meat, are excellent food, and will keep the animal in good health. A farm can usually support four or five cats profitably and these should be chiefly males, and the majority of these should be castrated. A castrated cat will grow to an enormous size, and if of a good breed, as the Maltese, will make a superb hunter.

Lucky Baldwin's Ranch.

E. J. Baldwin, everywhere known as Lucky Baldwin, worked on his father's farm, when young, in Indiana. After twenty-five years of trial at various pursuits, he drifted into the bonanza district, Nevada, and in a few years, by well-judged ventures in mining stocks, realized some millions. He became publicly known by building the "Baldwin," now so favorably known as a popular house on Market street, San Francisco, 275 by 210 feet. Included in the structure is Baldwin's Theater. The whole including furniture, cost $3,000,000. Traveling through Los Angelos county he fancied and bought a Spanish grant of 60,000 acres of beautifully watered garden land, and laid it out in princely style. Of this 13,000 acres are moist bottom land, needing no irrigation. Outside of this he has artificially irrigated most of the property by means of six miles of eight inch pipe, and beautiful lakes are formed here and there, with rustic bridges and other adornments. Some fifty rustic cottages are the homes of his army of working people. All sorts of farm buildings are tastefully arranged, and flowing artesian springs abound, of purest water. The orchard has 1,200 acres, with 18,000 orange and lemon trees, 2,000 almond, 500 Italian chestnuts, 80 acres of English walnuts, 500 acres of choice grapes, innumerable apples, pears, plums, peaches and figs. He has 60,000 eucalyptus trees of twenty-seven different varieties, and 3,000 of the graceful pepper trees, our most ornate evergreen and drooping variety, bearing a profusion of pepper-looking spice berries. A broad avenue is laid out, three miles long by 120 feet wide, lined on either side with eucalyptus trees. In the center is a row of pepper trees, making grateful shade in that sunny climate, and the air is cooled by innumerable fountains. Soon a mansion in keeping with the surroundings will be erected on the rising knoll overlooking this fairyland, and some hundred tenantry, with gardens and cultivated fields, will enrich the landscape and make this charmed spot a paradise, where the proprietor can pass his declining years in peaceful contemplation of the romance of his creation.—San Francisco Cor. Baltimore Sun.

The Price of Beef Cattle.

National Live Stock Journal.

There is discouragment, depression, sometimes present loss, in the production of a number of prominent farm products. There is hope in the future, and a not very remote future, as to these; but just now the results are not very satisfactory. This cannot be truthfully said of the production of beef. Prices are lower than they have been at times in the past—much lower than they were when our currency was depreciated; but the prices now current ought to give a fair profit to the beef producer who carefully manages his business. A good steer will sell for $5.00 per hundred pounds, live weight, in the Chicago market; first class steers will bring more; but, with present prices of land, grass, grain, labor, freights, a good farmer can rear, fatten, and deliver in Chicago a 1500 pounds steer for less than $70; or he can buy a thin steer, graze and feed it for a year, and sell it at a fair profit. The men who are doing this work are not growing rich very rapidly; the profits are not dazzling; but we have grown so much in the habit of looking on the dark side of American business affairs—of talking about the bad condition of farming—that it is worth while to emphasize the fact that there is now a fairly satisfactory state of affairs in the fat cattle trade. It must be borne in mind that the cost of production has been very considerably reduced in the last few years. Lands are sold or rented at lower prices. Only a few days since we learned of a fine body of pasture land, in good condition, within one hundred and twenty-five miles of Chicago, which the owner was anxious to rent for the season at $1.50 per acre. To stock a good pasture in central Illinois with good steers would seem to give a certainty of a good profit, where so low a rental is to be obtained. Corn is comparatively low in price. Hogs are low; but, with the ordinary mode of feeding them on cattle feeding farms, a small profit can be had, even at present prices. On the whole, the man who is rearing and feeding good grade steers is not in need of sympathy.

Japanese Shoes.

A writer calls attention to the cheap and effective method adopted by the Japanese to protect their feet:

One of the most striking sights that takes the attention of the traveler in Japan is that of the wooden sandals worn by the thirty-five millions of people. These sandals have a separate compartment for the great toe, and make a clacking noise on the street.

Straw slippers are also worn, and a traveler, setting out on a long journey will strap a supply on his back, that he may put on a new pair when the old are worn out. They cost but a cent and a half a pair. They are rights and lefts, and leave the foot free to the air. We never see those deformities of the foot in Japan which are so frequent in this country.

They are never worn in the house, being left outside the door; passing down a street you see long rows of them at the doors, old and new, large and small. It is surprising to see how rapidly the Japs step out of them, and pick them up again with their feet, without stopping, when leaving the house.

COLT TRAINING.

Three Days Work to Fit One for Harness.

From the English Agricultural Gazette.

Put on him an easy collar, having a pair of reins attached, or add two pieces to lengthen the traces, and let a strong man walk behind him, holding these. After a few minutes the leader may offer the man to pull the traces very gently, so as to press the collar but gently at first. In a little time he may pull tighter, while the leader keeps his eye on the colt, and if he shows any signs of flinching, let him order the traces to be slackened, and then gradually drawn up again until the colt is seen to lean into the collar, when the man who holds the traces may use his whole force, for a short time only. The traces must now be slackened again, and the same course gone over repeatedly, but stopping occasionally to pet him, taking care, however, to slack the traces just as he stops, and to run a little to one side when starting each time, while the man pulls the opposite trace. After this exercise let him be taken to the vehicle for which he is intended, allow him to smell and examine it; then push it away and draw it up to him several times, raising and lowering the shafts, until he takes no notice of the noise, or the different appearances when raised or lowered. Now turn him round and put him between the shafts, run them against his sides, push back and draw up the cart, striking him behind and on the side with it until he allows himself to be knocked about by it, so to speak. This will do for one day's lesson. Next day let all his harness be put on, leaving chains or straps to bang and strike against him, while the whole of the previous day's lesson is gone through with step by step. Same on third and fourth days. He may then be hitched up to the cart, and should have at least half an hour's exercise at going up and down hill, turning, &c. First start on a level ground. If these directions be carried out, the colt learns that the vehicle he draws is not meant to hurt him, and he will never try to kick it away or run off from it.

Rules for training.—1. Never try to beat a colt into doing a thing, or, if nervous, he may turn out a vicious horse, and if stupid, he may become stubborn. Remember that by patience and gentleness, he can be got to do anything that will not hurt him.

2. When a horse shows signs of shyness at any object, do not beat him, but lead him up to it, allowing him to stand and look as he comes closer; and after he examines it a few times, he will not fear anything of the kind again. In passing by hedges with a colt, throw in stones and stop him until he takes no notice of the noise.

3. Before putting on any article of harness, let your colt smell it and then rub it against his head, neck and body.

4. Always start a horse with the voice, never with the cut of the whip. In starting, turn a little to one side, and in stopping, when going up a hill, do the same.

THE "DEVIL'S PLANT."

A Weed Which Has Been a Farmer's Pest Proves to Be Worth $10,000,000 a Year to the Country.

Philadelphia Record.

"See hyar, boy; d'y know what pesky fool owns that there truck patch?"

The scene was the other side of Camden, just on the borders of Cooper's Creek. It was a Jersey countryman that asked the qurstion, and as he spoke he pointed to a tract of land thickly studded with green plants. It was the sight of the plant that inspired his disgust. Right before him was one of the finest pieces of ground in the neighborhood, and yet what he characterized as a "darned old weed" had been allowed to take complete possession.

This "weed" is what is known in botanical language as the "Abutilon avicenæ." Every farmer knows it by sight but few would know it by its scientific name. To them it is only a pest and a bad one at that. It makes its appearance among the corn, the potatoes, the berry bushes, in fact here, there and everywhere, and no device known to farmer will rid them of it. If one is pulled up another is sure to come in its place. If let alone it will not stop growing until it is head and shoulders above the tallest of tall men. It will thrive in the hottest sun, and its seed, for each plant scatters ounces promiscously every season—have such a tenacious life that they will resist the hardest frost. In fact, both plant and seeds will survive any amount of ill-treatment. "Devil's Plant" is the sobriquent which many farmers have given it, and if an explanation is asked for they will aver their belief that only the Evil One could have saddled such a pest upon the agricultural community.

Yet the "Devil's Plant" has proved to be a blessing in disguise, and a big one at that. From it can be produced a fibre infinitely superior to Indian jute. The discovery was brought about by a French gentleman, M. Emile Le Franc, who resided in America for about nine years. He is an authority on fibrous plants, and has written several reports on the subject for the National Agricultural Department. During the Centennial he came to reside in Philadelphia, and devoted some of his spare time in examination of the fibrous plants of New Jersey. The Abutilon avicenæ attracted his attention, and a little investigation brought him to the conclusion that the plant possessed no inconsiderable value. He commenced operating by a secret process of his own invention and found that the bark around the straight stem contained a valuable fibre. By a little more labor this fibre was brought to the condition required by manufacturers, and several to whom it was shown pronounced it equal to the jute imported by them from India. M. Le Franc also found that the short fibres could be made into a tissue which can be employed in the manufacture of of a new fabric.

This important discovery was not to be allowed to slumber. M. Le Franc reported it to the New Jersey Bureau of Statistics of Labor and Industries, and also determined to go into the manufacture of jute and the raising of the "Devil's Plant." The Bureau gave its co operation, and issued, under its seal, an offer from M. Le Franc to pay $8 per ton for straight jute stalks, not less than three or four feet in height, delivered in Camden. The circular also advised farmers to go into the cultivation of the plant, and gave important information relative to the seeds, methods of planting, and other particulars. This circular was the first information which the Jersey agriculturists received of the prize which was contained in their former enemy.

The cultivation of the "Devil's Plant" is to be generally followed in different parts of New Jersey. As the plant is also to be found in this State, it is anticipated that Pennsylvania farmers may find it to their profit to devote some attention to it. The discovery is calculated to have an important effect upon the trade of the country. Its ultimate result will undoubtedly be to render the United States independent of the world for a commodity which is now costing our manufacturers fully $10,000,000 annually. The total importations of hemp, flax, ramie, and jute into this country are valued at over $30,000,000 a year. The jute alone represents one-third of this amount. The supply comes exclusively from India, and the latter's trade in it has become the leading staple of Bengal. In this country jute is used for numberless purposes, among them for rope and carpet backs. It is also frequently mixed with linen in the manufacture of cloths. England, and in fact the whole of Europe, are dependent upon the Indian plantations for their supply. The New Jersey Bureau is authority for the statement that "extensive jute rope manufacturers of Philadelphia have offered to buy any quantity at the highest jute market price; that the long fibre is equivalent to that of the Calcutta prime jute, and that the manufacturers admit the superiority of the American variety over the imported." In the face of this testimony it is not too much to hazard the opinion that ere many years America will not only supply the home demand for the staple, but will also be able to inaugurate an export trade. At least so think those connected with the enterprise.

In April of last year the Record announced that the Government of India had offered a premium of $25,000 to any individual or company which could invent the best machine for the preparation of ramie, or Indian grass. The treatment of these plants in that country, as well as in China, is entirely by hand. This offer came to the notice of M. Le Franc, who has invented a process which is claimed to be the very thing for which the Indian Government is seeking. With this invention he has prepared some American ramie, and produced a staple next in appearance to silk. He has also ascertained that the ramie plant is indigenous to the soil in this part of the country, and as it in regard to importation ranks next to jute, it can be made to join with that plant in increasing the wealth of the country. Imported ramie is extensively used in this country by manufacturers, who mix it with silk and wove fabrics. It is also made into sewing and shoe thread on a large scale. M. Le Franc goes to India next season to submit his invention and claim the bounty from the Government. Should it be accepted, Brother Johnathan will have another feather in his cap of inventions, for the machine which is demanded will create an immense revolution in the textile trade of the British possessions.

CATARRH
Sneezing Catarrh, Chronic Catarrh, Ulcerative Catarrh, permanently cured by SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.
SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH is safe, certain, and permanent cure for Catarrh of every form, and is the most perfect remedy ever devised. It is purely a vegetable distillation, and is applied locally by insufflation, and constitutionally by internal administration. Locally applied, relief is instantaneous. It soothes, heals, and cleanses the nasal passages of every feeling of heaviness, obstruction, dullness, or dizziness. Constitutionally administered it renovates the blood, purifies it of the acid poison with which it is always charged in Catarrh, stimulates the stomach, liver, and kidneys, perfects digestion, makes new blood, and permits the formation of sound, healthy tissue, and finally obtains complete control over the disease. The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references. It is a great and good medicine, and worthy all confidence. Each package contains a Treatise on Catarrh and Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, and full directions for its use in all cases. Price $1.

An Enthusiastic Friend of Sanford's Radical Cure.
McHATTON, GRANT & BOWEN'S FIRE AND MARINE INSURANCE AGENCY, 725 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 7, 1877.
A. A. MELLEN, Washington Av., City.—Dear Mellen: I have for some years been troubled with Catarrh, and for the past two years have suffered seriously with it. Noticing your advertisement of SANFORD'S REMEDY (RADICAL CURE), I decided to try it. I have used only two bottles, and as a result I feel so much relieved that I presume on our personal relations and write this to you and ask that you take some measures to get it more prominently before the public, that others may have such relief as I have. I have recommended it to quite a number of my friends, all of whom have expressed to me their high estimate of its value and good effects with them.
I really think it particularly adapted to wants of St. Louis people, and they all ought to know of it, and those who need it should try it. I will risk the assertion that 1000 1 oz. vials (as a sample) to be given away will sell as many bottles.
Try some plan. Let the people know of it; they need it. I believe I could sell 5,000 bottles myself—of course you could largely increase this number. Why not try it? Yours truly, WM. BOWEN.

LAME BACK AND RHEUMATISM
CURED BY
COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS
Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen,—One year ago I was seized with a severe attack of Rheumatism in my right hip, to which I was subject. I tried the various liniments and rheumatic cures, but without the least benefit, when my son, a druggist, suggested one of your COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS. The effect was almost magical, for, to my grateful surprise, I was almost immediately well again, and was able to work in my farm as usual, when, before the application of the Plaster, I could do nothing, and every step gave me pain. A few weeks since, one year from the first attack, the disease returned, but I am happy to say the second Plaster proved as efficacious as the first, and I am now well. My wife wishes me to add that one Plaster has cured her of a very lame back. We think there is nothing in the world of remedies that can compare with the COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS for Rheumatism and Lame Back, and cheerfully recommend them to the suffering. Yours very respectfully,
ORLAND, Me., June 6, 1875. ROBERT COTTON.
NOT A QUACK NOSTRUM.
Gentlemen,—I hereby certify that for several years past I have used the VOLTAIC PLASTERS in my practice, and have never known them to fail in affording speedy relief in those cases for which they are recommended. They are not a quack nostrum, but a remedial agent of great value. Very truly yours, W. C. COLLINS, M. D.
DUCKSPORT, Me., May 27, 1874.
PRICE 25 CENTS.
Be careful to obtain COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTER, a combination of Electric and Voltaic Plates, with a highly Medicated Plaster, as seen in the above cut. Sold by all Wholesale and Retail Druggists throughout the United States and Canadas, and by WEEKS & POTTER, Proprietors, Boston, Mass.

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—Thawing out.

—Cling to your palm-leaf.

—The Guards had a street drill last night.

—A stray pocket book has been left at this office for an owner.

—Dr. Barnes is to sing at the Baptist church to-morrow evening.

—The Bower City Band is one of the attractions at the Guards' flag presentation.

—The usual song and praise service will be held at the First Methodist church to-night.

—Mrs. L. S. Reed, of Omaha, is in the city, visiting at the home of H. A. Stone, for a few days.

—Frank A. Lawrence will start next week for Denver in the hope of bettering his health by climatic change.

—Mrs. James Blair is still lying at the point of death, and it is thought she cannot survive many hours longer.

—The Janesville excursionists to the Wisconsin dells, returned this afternoon, greatly delighted with their trip.

—O. P. Graves, of La Prairie, has gathered from his trees some of the finest eating apples we have seen or sampled this season.

—John Malone, harvest hand, was on a cheap drunk yesterday, and will remain in jail until Monday morning, being unable to pay a fine.

—The women always "darn the trails" when they couple onto one of those nails with which the sidewalks abound. They need darning.

—Mrs. Rufus Royce is in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Lawrence, and other relatives and friends. She will remain here several weeks.

—Mrs. J. W. St. John, Mrs. H. A. Smith, Mrs. Moseley and Mrs. Conrad will sing at the Opera house, August 6th, at the flag presentation to the Guards.

—Tidings from Madison are to the effect that the Church Choir Pinafore Company drew there the largest audience ever gathered in the Opera house.

—Another happy excursion party took a pleasant ride up the river on the Lotos last evening, the Bower City Band accompanying them, and discoursing sweet music.

—Music by Anderson's string band at the Guards' dance, in the Myers house dining room, after the concert, Wednesday, August 6th. Tickets only 50 cents.

—W. W. Ashley sang at Miss Porter's concert in Monroe Thursday night. There was a large audience, and another concert was given with good success last night also.

—The Circuit Court met to-day, and disposed of several cases which have been pending for some time. There was little in the record however to interest the general public.

—Mrs. Stephen Chase and her daughter Mrs. Arthur Hayward gave a pleasant little tea party to about thirty of their friends last evening. It was an informal affair, but decidedly enjoyable.

—The Amphion Quartet are to sing to-morrow night at the Baptist church. Their voices blend well, and they are doing some fine quartet work which is gaining for them an enviable reputation.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Wilson arrived last evening, and at once proceeded to their new home in the Fourth ward. A few of the intimate friends of the newly-wedded ones assembled there and gave them a cordial greeting.

—He'll live and learn. A young man who has just embarked in the newspaper business got some bruised finger tips, and risked his life, in stopping a runaway horse last night. If that is the way he "kills" items, there will soon be a dearth of news.

—Yesterday afternoon we had the pleasure of greeting Mr. Newton Claypool, of Indianapolis, who is for a few days the guest of Rev. T. W. MacLean. Mr. Claypool is connected with the "belt railroad" which encircles that city and which is used for transfer purposes.

—There was a very pleasant little gathering of young folk at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Cook, last evening, in honor of Miss Alden, of Madison, and Miss Tinker, of Washington. Refreshments were served, and nothing was left undone to make all the participants joyful.

—The entertainment, and flag presentation to the Guards, next Wednesday night, at the Opera house promises to be of sufficient interest to cause the house to be filled. The Rockford Rifles are expected to give an exhibition drill. Speeches are to be made by Congressman Williams and O. H. Fethers, and music will be in abundance.

—M. C. Smith is to proceed at once with the erection of a new brick building on the vacant lot just east of his block, corner of Milwaukee and Main streets. The building is to be 35 by 71 feet, three stories, and with a front corresponding with that of the block. It will probably be completed in two months or so, but it has not yet been fully decided upon as to who shall occupy it.

—Everyone will be pleased to learn that the model of the famous Strasburg Clock will be exhibited in Janesville next week. The exhibition has created the greatest enthusiasm in all the principal cities of the United States and is a perfect fac simile of the great original. The price of admission being but 10 cents, everyone can afford to go and take the ladies and children along. The exhibition will open on Tuesday, at the spacious store in Tallman's block.

—Last evening between 7 and 8 o'clock the Hook and Ladder Company were practicing at the foot of the race. The Foreman's stentorian shouts of command attracted the attention of some boys on North Second street, and seeing the firemen on the run with the truck they started the cry of fire. The alarm was at once given and the boys were on their taps with usual promptness, but there was nothing to squelch.

—Arrangements are being made for the annual reunion of the 13th Wisconsin Infantry at Clear Lake on the 3d of next month. There will be a basket picnic and social doings, and speeches by Cols. Lyon and Bryant, of Madison, Woodman, of Baraboo, and others. The Committee having the matter in charge are F. C. Buten, of Milton Junction, W. P. Clark, of Milton, and Wm. A. Knilans, of Delavan.

—Mr. David A. Fifield is now fairly entered upon the lumber business at Pewaukee, and will soon have it in full and successful operation. His family will within a short time take up their residence there. Mr. Fifield has long been engaged in business here, and is widely known as a thorough business man, square in all his dealing, generous in all his giving, and the Pewaukee folk will find in him a man to whom "they can tie." His Janesville friends, while regretting his removal, will wish him and his the best of success and the greatest of enjoyment in the new enterprise and new home.

—Last evening the Baptist folk had a very pleasant social at the residence of William A. Lawrence. It was very largely attended. The lawn was freely used for croquet and strollers, and within the spacious rooms were filled with social chattere. Ice cream and cake were served to those who desired, and there was nothing lacking to make the enjoyment complete. During the evening the Amphion quartet, consisting of Messrs Bennett, Ashley, Dennis, and Alden, put in an appearance and gave some serenade songs, which were heartily applauded. The evening hours sped swiftly, being thus made light with enjoyment.

BALL AND BAT.

The game of base-ball between the Rockfords and the Janesville Mutuals yesterday afternoon did not draw as large a crowd as the game really merited. The Mutuals won by 14 to 1. They batted the Rockford pitcher lively, and there was some fine fielding shown in consequence. The Rockfords were not so successful in getting hold of Burdick. The game was an interesting one in spite of the one-sided appearance of the score.

RELEASED ON A HABEAS.

William Malone, who was found guilty of assaulting a man named William Johnson, in the town of Lima a short time ago, was yesterday afternoon released on a writ of habeas corpus by Justice Prichard. Under the present statutes in case a man is unable to pay the fine imposed upon him by a Justice, he can be sent to jail, but the time must be limited. The transcript from the docket of the Lima Justice showed that Malone was fined and committed to jail until it was paid, without limiting the time. It was on this point that Malone was released.

FALL FROM ALOFT.

A young man named Pratt, a son of Thomas Pratt, had a bad fall yesterday afternoon. While at work feeding the horses in the barn he fell from a hay-loft, a distance of ten feet, striking his head squarely upon a plank floor, and knocking him insensible. Dr. Judd was immediately summoned, and an examination showed that he had received some bad bruises about the head, but no bones were broken, and it is thought there are no serious internal injuries. This morning young Pratt was a little more comfortable than last night, and there seems to be good ground for expecting his speedy recovery.

WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 89 degrees above, at 1 o'clock a. m., to day at 75 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m., at 74 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m., at 93 degrees above. Clear.

One year ago to-day at 7 o'clock a. m. the thermometer stood at 74 degrees above, and at 2 o'clock p. m., at 85 degrees above.

The indications to-day are for the lake region, during the day, warmer southerly to westerly winds, falling barometer, increasing cloudiness and local rains, followed by rising barometer, and a slight fall in the temperature.

THE "BOSS" EXCURSION.

The Knights of Pythias have arranged an excursion which is to be without doubt the "boss" one of the season. They have engaged a special train to go to Chicago and return on Friday August 15. The train is to start from this depot at 6:30 o'clock a. m, reaching Chicago about 10 o'clock, and not leaving until 6:30 o'clock p. m, thus giving the excursionists almost the entire day in that great metropolis. The tickets have been placed at what may be termed rightly a nominal price—$2 for the round trip. It don't seem possible, but they say it is a fact that $2 will pay for the whole ride. At that price there is no need of doing anything more than to make the simple announcement. In order to prevent a crush a limited number of tickets only are to be sold for each car, and all who go must buy in advance. The tickets are now for sale by Moseley Bros., W. T. Vankirk, R. W. King, Sutherland & Sons, E. B. Helmstreet, Croft & Sherer, Britton & Kimball and Prentice & Evenson. The Committee of Arrangements are W. T. Vankirk, C. E. Moseley, E. B. Helmstreet, Fenner Kimball, C. A. Potter. The tickets will be sold rapidly, and those who want one of the best trips for the least money should not be slow about securing a chance.

RETURN OF REV. MR. JONES.

Rev. Jenk Ll. Jones returned last night from his Eastern trip. He reports a very happy time, save the drawback of a brief illness, but then fortunately he was in Chicago, where he had friends to care for him. Last week he spent on the shores of Lake Winnipisaukee, New Hampshire, where were gathered representatives of his faith from all parts of the country. The grove meeting as it is called, continued five days, and was a very interesting one. Among those present was Rev. St Mr John, of Worcester, Mass., a brother of Sylvester St. John, formerly of this city. The reverend gentleman himself will be remembered by many, as he lived here for some years, and was at one time a student in Dr. Treat's office. Among those to whom the success of the meeting was mainly due, was Rev. E. Powell, who was formerly settled at Monroe. He is a pastor of a church near the camping-out grounds, and as Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements won many well-merited praises. This is the second meeting of the kind which has been held there, and the Christian Messenger of Boston, which gives a lengthy account of the meeting, says it is of Western origin—"it is an exotic from the West—it is Jones and Unity transplanted on the shores of Winnipisaukee." In other parts of the account published in the same paper are several complimentary mentions of Mr. Jones, in one place saying—"He electrified us often by his impassioned and wonderfully brilliant addresses." Elsewhere in speaking of the work done by Rev. Mr. Chainey, of Evansville, Indiana, and Rev. Mr. Jones, the same paper says: "Then what should we have done without our Western brethren, Chainey, with his enthusiasm upon emerging from the Methodists, and Jones, the peerless pioneer, with the missionary spirit of a Paul, the fiery logic of an Erasmus, and the fervid eloquence of a Chrysostom." It is evident that Mr. Jones must have shown his strength at that meeting. Last Sunday he preached in Watertown, near Boston, and then started homeward stopping in New York, Meadville, and Cleveland.

Jas. Smith, Lambertville, N. Y., suffered 25 yrs, and hundreds of others which we can refer to from every section of our country. What stronger proof possible of the wonderful efficacy of SWAYNE'S OINTMENT in curing this distressing complaint. It is without question the greatest healing remedy the world has ever known; cures as if by magic, by simply anointing the parts effected, removing tetter, ring worm, scald head, erysipelas, any itching, scaly, scabby eruption, pimples or blotches on the face, unnatural redness of the nose or face, &c. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents a box, or three boxes $1.25. Sent by mail to any address by Dr. Swayne & Son, 330 North Sixth St., Philadelphia, on receipt of price. Ask your druggist for it. jy30deodwly-3

MISCELLANEOUS.

I AM CONVINCED!

That those in need of Clothing, either Custom or Ready-Made, appreciate the quality and style of our garments, as well as the very low price that we sell our goods for. My custom trade has not been as good in years as now. I employ none but first-class artists, and try to give my customers full value for their money.

Our line of Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps and Trunks and Bags is full of all the latest styles in the market. Boys from ten to fourteen years old can find White or Fancy Shirts to fit them and a Blue Yacht Cloth Suit. Call and see us. We take pleasure in showing our goods.

THE GREAT SALE OF THE SEASON!!

Will Open on Monday Morning, July 14th, 1879, at

M'Key & Bro's

MAMMOTH ESTABLISHMENT.

—:o:—

To dispose of our surplus stock of SUMMER goods before the end of the Season, we have determined to offer the people of Janesville and Rock County a series of the Greatest Bargains ever known in the annals of trade. Our surplus stock must and shall be closed out at once. To accomplish this end we shall stop at no sacrifice however great, but make prices that will cause an immediate rush for the goods. In our Dress Goods Department!

We have made a general reduction in prices and offer an elegant variety of light fabrics for Summer Wear at less than cost to close out.

All-Wool Buntings worth 50c reduced to 22c per yard.

20 lines of choice Dress Goods in the best American brands, sold at various prices from 20 to 37½ cents per yard, cut down to 15 cents per yard all around. The best stock of BLACK SILKS in the city at old prices nothwithstanding the recent advance of 25 per cent in the market.

All-Wool Black Lace Buntings 48 inches wide reduced to 90 cents per yard.

LADIES' LINEN SUITS at 50 per cent less than cost.

Anticipating the recent advance of 40 per cent in raw cotton, we bought largely of Sheetings, Shirtings and all kinds of Cotton goods, and while our stock lasts we have concluded to give our customers the benefit of our timely purchase. We shall therefore continue to sell Cottons at our former extremely low prices. We offer immense lines of Stylish Prints at 5 cents per yard.

Hose at 5 cents per pair. Handkerchiefs at 5 cents each. Edgings at 5 cents per yard. "Janesville Belle," the best $1.00 Corset in the west. Pat. Val. Laces 5 cents per yard. Ladies' Ties 5 cents each. 12 spools of Thread for 5 cents. 1000 Fans at 5 cents each. Ruchings at 5 cents per yard.

We would say in conclusion that we are bound to make a clean sweep of all our surplus Spring and Summer Goods within the next 30 days, and those who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity to buy seasonable goods for a mere song should call at once.
